Everybody's Talking!

Leopard ladder: The safety of the wild animals around them must have been at the forefront of the minds of some villagers in India. Area residents, who live near the Satpura Tiger Reserve in Madhya Pradesh, discovered that a leopard had accidentally gotten itself to the bottom of a deep well and was unable to climb back out. With the help of wildlife officials, the residents rigged up a ladder made from available materials—bamboo and rope. They placed the ladder into the well, and the leopard was able to climb up to safety. It didn't stick around to say thanks, though. It preferred to run back into the jungle.

Message in a bottle: A man in Morocco found something interesting on Plage Blanche, a famous beach near the city of Guelmim. Fisherman Hassan Elbaz picked up a bottle and found a note inside. But, as he doesn't speak or read English, he took the note to his son Ayoub to decipher. The note included an email address, so Ayoub was able to contact the author, who turned out to be a young girl named Shiloe from Long Island, New York (US). With the help of her father, Imtaiz Khokhar, Shiloe had written the note three years earlier and tossed it overboard during a cruise to Bermuda. The bottle traveled nearly 3,000 nautical miles.

Stay in the car: When touring an animal safari, everyone knows that you should never leave your car. For a group of five French tourists who were driving through Safari Park Beekse Bergen in the Province of Brabant, Netherlands, that rule didn't seem to sink in. The two women, along with three children, got out of their vehicle to get better pictures of the cheetahs. When the car first stopped, the cheetahs ignored them, but at a later stop, several of the animals charged and circled the tourists. The group managed to get back to their car unscathed, which was very lucky indeed. The whole thing was video taped by visitors in another car.

One ugly dog: Some very sorry-looking canines show up at the World's Ugliest Dog Competition. Held annually in Petaluma, California (US), the event is a fun way to promote the message that all animals deserve a home. The 2018 winner was an English bulldog named Zsa Zsa, whom owner Megan Brainard found on a pet search website. Zsa Zsa passed away not long after her big win, but she did get to walk down the red carpet at the competition with her long tongue happily hanging out of her mouth.

Quoteable Quotes

"Be kind whenever possible. It is always possible." —Dalai Lama
"Whenever you see a successful person, you only see the public glories, never the private sacrifices to reach them."
—Vaibhav Shah

Did You Know...

Wonder wasp: No one likes to see wasps at a backyard barbecue, but they aren't all bad. Wasps protect crops by feeding on agricultural pests, such as aphids, beetles, and plant lice.

Meat eater: The dinosaur known as the Tyrannosaurus rex was a huge creature. It weighed twice as much as an elephant and was as long as a bus. A deadly carnivore, its name means "king of lizards."

Delicacy: The ostrich fern is the source of a delicacy called fiddleheads, which are the curled shoots of this fern that grow in Canada and much of the U.S. They are only available fresh in the spring. Chefs boil or steam them, after which they can be sautéed or used in other dishes.

Storm rating: Hurricanes are rated according to the Saffir-Simpson Hurricane Wind Scale, which gives ratings from one to five, based on wind speed, with five being the most dangerous. Each hurricane is identified by a name.

Untidy composer: Ludwig van Beethoven was a great German composer, but is said to have had unconventional habits. For example, he was not very tidy and apparently he was clumsy, too. Most would agree that his music made up for these minor shortfalls!

On the Lighter Side

What do you get when you mix your dad's red paint with his white paint? You get in trouble.

There were four cats in a boat and one jumped out. How many were left? None. They were all copy cats.

All those in favor of conserving gasoline, please raise your right foot.

Why do elephants eat raw food? Because they don't know how to cook.

A person who can't lead and won't follow makes an effective roadblock.
