Everybody's Talking!

Clean streets: The streets of Tokyo, Japan, have become cleaner ever since a character named Mangetsu Man decided to do a good deed. Dressed in a purple suit, Mangetsu Man wears a big yellow ball that has eyes, a nose and a mouth drawn onto it. He carries a broom and dustpan and keeps busy sweeping up the dust and dirt on the street in the Roppongi district of the city. And that's not all, he has also been known to act out funny skits, as well as play basketball when the spirit moves him. Mangetsu Man even has his own website, where he says he wants to deliver love and happiness.

Guide dog duty: A guide dog name O'Neil came to the rescue of his two handlers during a training outing on the streets of San Rafael, California (US). The three were walking on a sidewalk when a car suddenly jumped the curb from the street and started careening down the sidewalk. In the nick of time, O'Neil pulled his human companions around a corner. Meanwhile, the car continued on its erratic journey before coming to rest on the side of a building. O'Neil's handlers are quite sure that he'll provide great services to a lucky owner someday!

Sitting on the clouds: An ancient castle on Mount Kojo in Asago, Hyogo Prefecture in Japan seems to sit on clouds every autumn morning between dawn and 8 a.m., when fog surrounds the area. Called Takeda Castle, historians believe it was built in 1443. Many tourists visit the castle in the fall to witness this illusion, as well as in the spring, when cherry blossoms adorn the grounds. To reach the castle, visitors have to hike for 40 minutes from the foot of the mountain. There is a charge to view the ruins and the money goes towards the castle's preservation.

Simulated disaster: A restaurant in Spain called the Disaster Café, means business. Customers are treated not only to good food, but also to a simulated major earthquake. The good thing is that no one gets hurt, but a lot of drinks get spilled as the place starts to rattle and shake, with lights flickering and furniture jiggling. People love the experience, but to get in, it's necessary to make reservations. The serving staff of the establishment wear uniforms that resemble construction site attire (such as hard hats) and there is also an alien theme that appeals to kids. It's fun for everyone!

Quoteable Quotes

"The opinion of the majority is not the final proof of what is right."
- Schiller

"Be happy with what you have. If you spend your life looking for greener pastures, you might find you're too old to climb the fence."
- Anon.

Did You Know...

Yummy fruit: The purple mangosteen is a tree fruit that originated in Indonesia and is found in a few other tropical countries. It is about the size of a tangerine, but has a hard, purple inedible exterior. The inside is soft and white with a tangy, but sweet taste.

Big and sweet: Jackfruit grows on trees in some tropical countries, such as India and Brazil. Large and oblong, this fruit can weigh from three to 30 kilograms (66.1 pounds). The green exterior has blunt thorns and the edible interior contains yellow-orange bulbs that taste sweet.

Blue water: In southwestern Iceland there is a place called the Blue Lagoon which has geothermal water which comes from underground. The water appears to be blue due to its composition and it is 38°C (100°F), which is the perfect spa temperature.

Frog's skin: A frog's skin is very important. For example, frogs do not drink water. Rather, they hydrate themselves by soaking water into their body through their skin. As well, some of the air they need comes through their skin, while the rest is breathed through their nostrils.

On the Lighter Side

How do you drive a baby buggy?
Tickle its feet!

What did the chick say when it saw an orange in the nest?
"Look at the orange mama laid!"

Policeman stopping a motorist for driving down a one-way street: "Just where do you think you're going?"
Driver: "I don't know, but I must be late 'cause everyone else is already coming back!"

How many cockroaches does it take to change a lightbulb?
No one knows; when the light comes on they all scatter.

Father: "Son, what should you do when you see a flag waving?"
Little Boy: "Wave back."
