Everybody's Talking!

Vampire dwelling: Tami and Robin Varma, a brother and sister from Ottawa, Ontario (Canada), had a very interesting experience when they stayed a night in Dracula's castle in Bran, Romania. The night was part of a five-day trip to Europe that the pair won in a contest. The host of the night was Dacre Stoker, a great-grandnephew of Bram Stoker, author of Dracula. Lots of reporters were on hand to record the evening, which included food, live music, and a horse and buggy for transportation. The siblings were given the run of the castle for the night so they could enjoy the artwork, the books, and the spooky atmosphere.

Sleep tight: A company in Idaho Falls, Idaho (US), has developed a modern way for children to enjoy bedtime stories. Combining reading with fashion, the company came up with Smart PJs, polka-dotted pajamas literally filled with stories. When a section of dots is scanned by a smartphone or tablet, a story comes up on the screen. This allows children to hop into bed and every night get a different story, which can be read aloud from the device, preferably while snuggling with their parents! Each set of pajamas holds dozens of stories, but don't read them all at once or you'll need to buy a new pair for your little one!

Gold treasure: When people inherit money, it's usually in the form of a bank account. Not so for a man in Normandy, France, whose surprise inheritance came as gold coins and bars weighing a total 100 kilograms (220 lbs.) The items were hidden throughout a house that was willed to him by a deceased relative. He found the pieces of gold, worth €3.5 million, when he was moving his relative's belongings out of the home. In the house, he also found certificates attesting that the gold had been purchased during the 1950s and 1960s.

Going squirrely: It's disheartening to come home and find that your house has been burglarized. That is what a couple from Oak Bay, British Columbia (Canada), thought had happened to them. After a long vacation, they came home to find their house in a mess. Constable Sheri Lucas was one of the cops called to the scene. She and her partner soon discovered that the culprit was not a human burglar. Rather, it was a squirrel that probably had entered the house through a vent. It did a lot of damage during its stay in the couple's home, and it especially enjoyed the nuts they'd left out in a bowl on the kitchen counter.

Did You Know...

Let your hair down: Red hair is a distinctive but rare trait. The Dutch honor this interesting feature with Roodharigendag, an annual festival to celebrate redheads, held in the Netherlands on International Redhead Day.

Angel rating: The largest city in the state of California (US) is Los Angeles, which is Spanish for "The Angels." Nicknamed "The City of Angels," Los Angeles is the second largest in the United States.

Leggy creatures: Arachnid is the term used to describe invertebrates that have eight legs, such as spiders, scorpions, ticks, and mites. Arachnids do not have antennae.

No visiting: A yellow flag flown on a ship is called a quarantine flag. The manner in which it is flown indicates whether the ship is disease-free, or whether someone aboard the ship has an infectious disease.

Breakfast goodies: Countries around the world have different breakfast traditions. North Americans like bacon and eggs, East Indians enjoy flatbread with dipping sauce, and South Africans go for putu pap, which is similar to oatmeal, but made of corn and served with milk and syrup.

On the Lighter Side

A colony of bats, hanging from a cave ceiling, saw a single bat standing upright on the floor. "What are you doing?" they asked. "Yoga!" he shouted back.

What has a lot of keys but cannot open any doors? A piano.

Did you ever notice that when you blow on a dog's face, he doesn't like it. But when you take him for a ride, he sticks his head out of the window?

A man lived for ten years eating only tiny pieces of metal. It was his staple diet.
